

AFTER PARTY FUN

"It's not over until it's over," says Scott Hornak, CEO of Craig Scott Entertainment, a full service entertainment company. The trend now in weddings is the after-party, where guests can either catch up in an intimate lounge atmosphere with a quiet jazz trio, or party on in a club-like environment with a DJ and snazzy lighting. Weddings in general are being "scored" with, say, violins greeting your guests, classical strings at the ceremony, a cocktail hour enlivened by Brazilian samba, Broadway tunes for the dinner hour, and a dance floor kept hopping with larger bands of eight to 11 musicians or more.
